XM's traffic and weather is much BETTER than commercial FM stations because it is active all the time and you don't have to wait for the chit-chat and music to hear what is happening on the roads and in the skies immediately. XM's traffic and weather does not impede the regular flow of free enterprise and to limit this type of broadcasting would be nothing less than promotion of monopolies for the commercial stations which already get their finances from commercials.

XM Radio and XM traffic and weather should remain a part of the free enterprise system in this country - quit trying to rule the airwaves where it doesn't need to be ruled. You should be more concerned about what is out in cyberspace and is currently un-ruled and of more possible detriment to the cyber-children who are currently un-ruled in their own homes.
